To exit the performance summary before the end, press and hold the central button.

If you are just starting out, begin by exercising for several days at a low speed, without pushing yourself and taking breaks if necessary. Gradually increase the number or duration of the sessions. Keep your back straight during your workout. During your workout, remember to ventilate the room in which you are using the bike.

Keep fit/Warm-up: Gradual effort starting from 10 minutes

For keeping fit and staying in shape or undertaking physiotherapy, you must exercise everyday for around ten minutes. This type of exercise will wake up your muscles and joints, or it can be used as a warm-up before another type of physical activity.

To improve leg toning, choose a stronger resistance and increase exercise time. Evidently you can vary pedalling resistance throughout your workout.

Keep in shape / Lose weight: Moderate effort for a relatively long time (at least 22 minutes / day)

You are advised to practise this activity regularly and moderately. Your cardiologist can advise you about your limits after a cardiac stress test. Ideally, you should sweat slightly when exercising, without feeling out of breath. The WHO recommends a session of this type lasting at least 22 minutes every day, in order to stay fit.

The WHO recommends one session of this type lasting at least 44 minutes every day in order to lose weight, and to lose fat in particular.

Improve your stamina: Sustained effort for 20 to 40 minutes

This type of training aims to strengthen the heart muscles significantly and improve respiratory functioning. Pedalling resistance and/or speed is increased which then increases breathing during exercise. This type of exercise is more sustained than when you are working out to get into shape. As you progress, you can exercise for longer and using faster paces. You can do this type of workout at least three times a week. Training at a faster pace (anaerobic exercise and exercise in the red zone) is for athletes only and requires suitable preparation. After each workout, set aside several minutes to cool down and let your body wind by gradually reducing pedalling speed.

Stretching

You are advised to perform stretching movements after each session in order to relax your muscles and to recover more effectively.
